

There were fewer than 20 children in each class.

Children sat in rows facing the front.

Children learned by chanting facts and times tables.

Boys learned needlework and housekeeping skills.

Children used computers.

A hard working child wore the dunce's cap.

Children sat at wooden desks.

Teachers used blackboards.

The three Rs were the most important lessons.

Teachers hit children with a cane.

Lunchtime was one hour long.

Children didn't have a playtime.

